

We are aware of reports regarding a potential vulnerability (CVE-2026-1670). Our security team is actively investigating the issue and engaging with the manufacturer to evaluate risk and the availability of firmware updates or mitigations. Based on the information currently available to Honeywell, this potential vulnerability impacts 3 models of discontinued CCTV camera models (model numbers: HDZ322DI, HC20WZ2R25, HIB2PI-UL) that were distributed exclusively in India. Security is a top priority at Honeywell, and we are committed to the integrity of our products and systems. We will provide updates, as appropriate, once more information is available.